

ABOUT THE STATE

Happenings of Interest from Different Sections.

Dr. H. M. Smith of Lyndonville has just received a patent for an automobile light dimmer, which he used for several months on his own car. It consists of two metal shields, which are operated easily from the driver's seat, and snap around the light bulb, cutting off the top and bottom rays, which are the most powerful, and leaving the side rays to illuminate the side of the road. It is operated on an entirely different principle from any other dimmers and bids fair to make a great success for the inventor.

Carrying two lights did not prevent the wagon of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lamore, in which they were returning to their home in Salisbury from Lake Dunmore, from being smashed up July 16, when they were run into by the auto of Orren Nelson of Salisbury. Mr. Lamore was thrown over the dash board and was dragged several hundred feet, but was not seriously injured. Mrs. Lamore was also thrown out and her forehead was cut deeply, and one ankle and foot bruised. The wagon was a wreck.

An automobile ran into the team of John Annis of Passumpsic as he was returning home last Thursday night and the impact threw him down a bank. The horse broke through a barbed wire fence onto the railroad track, and then started to run up the track. On reaching the railroad bridge, the horse fell through. The down train was just due, so a telephone message was necessary to the next station to hold the train until the horse could be rescued. The animal was badly bruised and so was Mr. Annis, for he struck on his shoulder when he went over the bank.

A Ford sedan driven by Rev. L. G. Leary, D. D. pastor of the Huguenot Memorial Presbyterian church of Pelham Manor, N. Y., went over a bank in West Brattleboro early Friday morning and the minister and son, George, 14, were thrown through the window. A six-year-old son, William, received a deep cut in the back and another boy, Lewis, 15, was cut on the head. The family were taken to the Melrose hospital at West Brattleboro where a piece of glass two inches long was taken from the back of the youngest boy. Mr. Leary was close to the right hand side of the road when the wheels of the car suddenly left the federal road and struck soft dirt, which caused it to go over the bank.

Richard James, eldest son of Judge and Mrs. Charles S. James of Weybridge, was badly hurt about the back and one shoulder and leg were torn when an auto driven by A. L. Loneragan of Essex Junction struck the wagon in which Mr. James and his son were riding July 17. Judge James was thrown over a barbed wire fence into a meadow and was not hurt, but his son was thrown against him. The animal was slightly scratched and the wagon totally demolished. The Essex Junction car is alleged to have cut in between the team and another car approaching and took a rear wheel from the wagon.

MOST INJURIES IN VERMONT.

In Marble Quarry Statistics for the Year 1920.

Reports received by the United States bureau of mines from operators of marble quarries throughout the country show that 4,438 men were employed in the industry during the year 1920; that each man averaged 284 working days during the year; and that the total number of shifts worked by all employees was 1,204,562. The number of employees and the total number of shifts represent an increase of 11 per cent each as compared with the record for 1919, while the average working days per man is the same as for the previous year. More men were employed at marble quarries in 1920 than in any year since 1916, and the total shifts worked by all employees was larger than for any year since 1915.

Four employees were killed and 400 injured by accidents during the year, 132 of the injuries occurring in and about the quarry pits, and 268 at the rock-dressing plants outside the quarries. In the pits 27 men were injured by handling rock, 22 by flying objects, 27 by drilling and channelling, 15 by machinery, 12 by falls of persons, and 11 by timber or hand tools. At the outside rock-dressing plants, 162 men were injured by handling rock, 30 by machinery, 16 by nails and splinters, 15 by haulage accidents, 13 by falls of persons, and 11 by flying objects.

Considered by states, 231 men were injured at quarries in Vermont, 29 in Tennessee, 26 in Georgia and 24 in Missouri.

Marble quarries employ approximately five per cent of all quarry workers in the United States.

Special Prizes for Boys and Girls at the State Fair.

C. L. Stuart, Lyndonville, president of the Vermont State Fair association, offers special cash prizes of $5 each to the boy or girl who prove themselves the best individual demonstrators in the club team contest from the various counties in the state at the annual state fair, White River Junction, Oct. 3 to 6.

Speakers for Vermont Meetings.

The committees having in charge the co-operative field meetings to be held under the joint auspices of the state grange, the farm bureau and the agricultural extension service of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural college have completed the list of speakers and announced them as follows: Oliver Wilson of Illinois, past master of the national grange, Grace E. Frysinger from the states relations service of the United States department of agriculture and Chester Gray of Missouri, a member of the executive committee of the American Farm Bureau federation.

TWO MORE VAIL SUITS.

One Claims Sale of Stocks, Other of Books to Late Telephone Head.

Two new cases have been docketed in Caledonia county court against the estate of Theodore N. Vail, late of Lyndon. The plaintiff is the International Product company of Baltimore, Md., and represents a claim that now amounts to practically $200,000. It is the contention of the plaintiff that this sum represents a claim against the estate for stock which Mr. Vail agreed to take in the company.

The bill was not originally allowed by the commissioners. The claim was not presented within the legal time for the proving such claims, but later, as a result of a hearing in probate court, the commission was reopened to allow the presentation of this claim. R. E. Gleason of Montpelier is attorney for the Maryland corporation and Lawrence, Lawrence and Stafford of Rutland represents the Vail estate.

Another interesting case against the Vail estate has just been settled by the probate court. The claim against the estate by George W. Smith of New York, the well-known dealer and collector of rare books and costly editions, especially of European publications.

The bill in question was for $16,000 and was for books purchased by Mr. Vail just before he died. The invoice did not arrive until after his death and before the matter was adjusted, Mr. Smith died. The settlement was finally effected between the executors of the two estates.

PESKY DEVILS.

P. D. Q. QUIETUS.

P. D. Q. Pesky Devils Quietus is the name of the new chemical that actually ends the bug family. It kills the bugs, roaches, ants and fleas, and it kills the live ones and their eggs and their young.

AS each package makes one quart and each package contains a patent sprout to get the Pesky Devils in the cracks and crevices.
